Guest Speaker

Chair Bob Oliver introduced speaker Peter Hanlon. Peter was in the RAAF for 20 years before progressing a banking career for 25 years. He has subsequently focussed on film making as a Producer and has produced 8 films.

He discussed that SA produces 16-17% of films in Australia while SA produces only 6% of Australia's GDP. It employs 8,000 people in SA through multiple small businesses.

Funding for films comes from private investors and in Australia, from Screen Australia and the SA Film Cooperation. Funding may also be available from the SA Film Festival.

Peter discussed his recent film 'The Angels' about a 1970's local rock group which has received much local support including at the Adelaide Film Festival and he is hoping further support will be received in the USA.

He discussed his role as producer, which was a whole encompassing function around developing the concept, seeking funding, acting as HR manager, business manager, creative designer....; that films generally took 5-7 years from concept to release; and feature films generally cost between $3m-$5m in Australia. He highlighted catering on set was a priority as other conditions on set were often less satisfactory.

Sergeant Alan conducted a comprehensive fire session.
